ADMINISTRATIVE HISTORY

The Schuylerville Public Library was established in 1894 and chartered in 1905 to serve the local population. In 1968, the library moved to its current location at 52 Ferry Street, downtown Schuylerville, New York. The Library was re-chartered as a School District Library in 2013 and now serves a population of approximately 10,000 from Saratoga County. Schuylerville Public Library is a member of the Southern Adirondack Library System (SALS), which shares a computerized cataloging system with the Mohawk Valley Library System.

The mission of the Library is “to assemble, preserve and provide printed, audio, video and other electronically accessed materials that will meet the educational, informational, cultural and recreational interests and needs of the community serviced by the Library and in compliance with local, state and federal laws. The Library will be a source of refuge, inspiration and safe harbor to all patrons who seek the services it provides.”

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The Schuylerville Public Library Local History Collection consists of materials that span the years of 1854-2015. The materials included represent the Schuylerville Public Library; governance, reports, and projects within the Town of Saratoga and Saratoga County; pamphlets and ephemera; local family histories; correspondence; records relating to the American Revolution era; published materials of local organizations and authors; photographs; newspaper clippings; and select Saratoga County magazines. This small, but developing collection holds much research value.

The Schuylerville Public Library has two noteworthy research areas, and the Local History Collection contains series in both: The American Revolution and Genealogy materials. The American Revolution is significant because Schuylerville, also known as Old Saratoga, was the site of the famous turning point battle, the Battle of Saratoga, also known as the Saratoga Campaign. The American Revolution series contains a wide variety of materials reflecting the time period, including a number of academic reports on the battle itself. The series also includes a plethora of ephemera from the bicentennial celebration in 1977.

The Local Family Records series includes family lineages from various local families, but also contains quite an interesting collection of correspondence involving the Webster family and their relatives, dating from 1854 to 1925. There are also a significant amount of papers relating to the legal aspects surrounding William B. Webster’s death in the early twentieth century. These papers and correspondence reflect society during this time period, as researchers are able to see how families interacted when separated by distance. Included in this series are also a handful of different family’s complete lineages.

The Local Governance, Projects, and Reports series contains the project reports for the Independent Towers LLC and National Grid. The Independent Towers LLC Company wished to build a one hundred foot Telecommunications Tower. The National Grid project was to rebuild about fourteen miles of 115 kV double-circuit electric transmission facilities from the Mohican Substation in Saratoga County to the Battenkill Substation in Washington County. The items in this series contain the project reports, supplementary documents, and the response from the community, which was not entirely positive.

These are just a few of the noteworthy records a researcher may find in this collection. Let it be noted that this collection has passed through the hands of several archives interns. As a result, some of the items have been encased in Mylar and include a numbering system that is no longer applicable.
